

Grant Guidelines

Liberty Bank Foundation was established in 1997 as an extension of Liberty Bank's commitment to the communities it has served since 1825. We invest in organizations that our neighbors depend on to build strong and vibrant communities.

Our Mission

To improve the lives of our customers, teammates, and communities for generations to come.

Funding Priorities

Our funding is focused on supporting low-to-moderate income individuals and families in the following priority areas:

Education & Training: Our Education & Training grants support K-12 programs aimed at improving academic performance and preparing students for college or careers after graduation. We also focus on Adult Workforce Development, funding programs that help unemployed or underemployed individuals secure stable, well-paying jobs. Additionally, we support small businesses, often through grants to Entrepreneurial Support Organizations (ESOs), recognizing their role in strengthening communities and local economies.

Affordable Housing: Connecticut still faces an affordable housing shortage, despite recent progress. Eligible programs for affordable housing grants include:

- Development of low/moderate-income housing, with or without supportive services
- Technical assistance for nonprofit affordable housing developers
- Education to build support for affordable and supportive housing
- Foreclosure prevention and homeowner counseling
- Homebuyer and landlord education for low/moderate-income individuals

Food: We provide a limited number of grants, typically ranging from $5,000 to $10,000, to the primary food pantry or soup kitchen in each community. Our main effort to address food insecurity is through our Liberty Bank Rotary Club Thanksgiving Drive.

Eligibility for Grants

When reviewing grant applications, here's what we take into consideration:

- Number of people served
- The level of need of the people to be served.
- Measurable Impact. Will the program generate long-term change by preventing a potential problem from occurring, or only provide temporary relief? Will it create meaningful change in the community or for the individuals involved?

The following types of organizations are eligible for grants from the foundation:

- Nonprofit organizations recognized under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code that are classified as public charities
- Municipal Agencies (where the project is solely for public purposes)

For the most part, we prefer to fund specific programs. On rare occasions, we may consider requests for capital projects or equipment.
